3650 YANK CASUALTIES IN IWO FIGHT

STATE LIBRARY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Sink 25 Jap Ships

STORIES ON PAGE 2

No Show—There were plenty of disappointed dogs—527 to be exact—in Boston today . . . and among them were these champions, Winnelby Oaaben (above), a standard schnauzer, and Kataf and Sultan (right), thoroughbred salukis. They were to appear here in the Eastern Dog Club show, which was canceled a few hours before the scheduled time for opening. (Story on Page 3.)

Iwo Casualties 3650 in 2 Days

By AL DOPKING

GUAM, Feb. 21 (AP)—Approximately 3650 Marines were killed or wounded in the first 48 hours of the battle for Iwo Jima, Adm. Nimitz announced today as he reported the leathernecks made general advances ranging up to 1000 yards on the island's central air field. Nimitz listed approximately 3500 enlisted men and 150 officers as casualties—killed, wounded and missing. He said 3063 of the wounded have been evacuated, indicating about 600 were killed or missing.

There was no estimate of Japanese losses.

(Casualties during the 76-hour invasion battle at Tarawa in November, 1943, totaled 3151, including 988 killed. The battle for Tarawa, in the Gilbert Islands, was described at that time as the bloodiest in the history of the Marine Corps.)

Tank-led Marines, holding firm control of more than a third of the island, began an enveloping drive against the fighter field, known as Motoyama No. 2. The Fifth Marine Division by-passed the southern tip of the field in a flanking move, preparatory to striking at it from the west, while the Fourth Division pushed directly toward the center of the airdrome.

Every yard of the advance was made under a steady hail of Japanese machine gun, mortar, rifle and rocket fire over wet, rocky slopes criss-crossed with revetments, pillboxes, blockhouses and reinforced sniper holes. Mines and tank traps were plentiful.

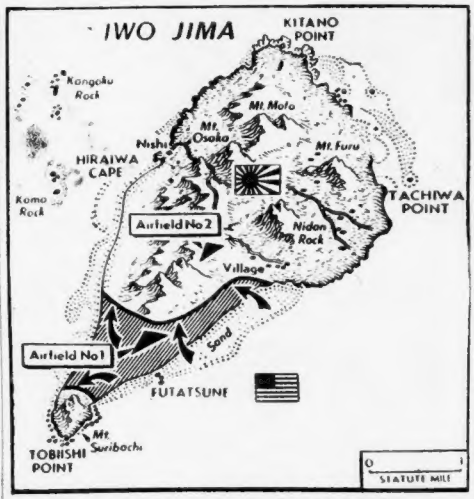
The Marine drive stemmed from Motoyama Airfield No. 1, the island's prized bomber field captured yesterday noon, 30 hours ahead of schedule.

About 700 yards separate these two fields, the only completed air strips on the island, 750 miles south of Tokyo.

Other Devil Dogs crawled 100 painful yards up the slopes of Suribachi volcano, a fortress mountain on the southern tip of the island from which the Japanese guns dominate every inch of the dismal ground the Yanks control.

Vicious Japanese defenders attempted one small tank-supported night-time counterattack and almost constant infiltration, both co-ordinated with mortar, rocket and artillery barrages.

Naval guns, masses of Marine artillery, carrier planes, tanks and individual Marine units combined in pulverizing Japanese defenses which cover the entire volcanic island. But the Marines still face an uphill fight.



IWO JIMA—With the main bomber field (Airfield No. 1) captured, the Marine invaders today were moving (arrows) against Airfield No. 2. The Yanks hold one-third (shaded area) of island, have sealed off the Jap stronghold of Mt. Suribachi.

Patton in 5-Mile Sweep As Canadians Take Goch

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Scots of the Canadian army captured the northern German fortress city of Goch today while in the center of the Western Front the American Third Army advanced up to five miles in a broad sweep in the Moselle valley toward the Rhine, seizing 11 towns.

Lt. Gen. Patton's tanks and infantry thundered forward through the Eifel mountains on a 50-mile front. Vanguards reached to within two miles of the heavily fortified road center of Saarburg, a key to German defenses along the Moselle.

The Scots thrust on 600 yards southwestward of Goch, center of eight military highways.

Beyond the once-bristling town lies a small open plain in which no fixed German fortifications have been noted.

Patton's drive along the Moselle was threatening the compact coal and steel treasures of the Saar district, which also was endangered by the increasingly aggressive American Seventh Army 35 miles to the south.

Patton was eight miles deep in Germany along the Moselle. He was beyond or within the Siegfried Line along his entire 50-mile assault front.

Lt. Gen. Patch's troops advanced on a 12-mile front to within less than three miles of Saarbruecken, moved into the outskirts of the suburban French rail center of Forbach and scooped up six border villages.

Saarbruecken is the center of five railroads and five main highways fanning out toward the Rhine.

In the southern outskirts of Forbach, Patch's Americans surrounded the medieval castle of Schlossberg and trapped the German garrison inside.

The British Second and American First and Ninth armies stood in mighty strength along the receding Roer river between the Canadians and Patton's Third Army. The Germans repeated that an offensive was imminent across the Roer toward the great cities of the Rhine and the Ruhr valleys.

Patton finally got his armor clanking up the Moselle valley toward the Rhine after many days of bitter fighting in the Siegfried Line and in floods caused by thaws and freshets.

An armored division which broke across the Moselle drove up to five miles in the triangle formed by the Saar and Moselle.

Patton's men captured 1200 prisoners in the Saar-Moselle triangle alone in fighting yesterday.

In a half-mile gain northeast, the Fifth Division reached a point eight miles northeast of Echternach, occupying a six-mile stretch along the Pruem river beyond the breached Siegfried Line.

After crossing the Enz river, the 80th Division pushed a half mile north, reaching a point six miles north of Bollendorf.

Other Third Army troops drove a half mile east, capturing Langfuhr and edged ahead a quarter mile to a point two miles northeast of Vianden.

Planes Drop Bombs Near Berchtesgaden

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP)—Rocket-firing Thunderbolts of the U. S. 12th Air Force made the first attack of the war yesterday on Hitler's prvate city of Berchtesgaden, the mountain hideout high in the snow-capped Bavarian Alps, it was announced today.

The planes, sweepng in from Italian bases, pumped rockets into railyards at low levels, ripped rail tracks, cars and locomotives and smashed at other targets in and near Berchtesgaden, which may be the most heavily fortified spot in all the Reich. They ran into intense flak and small arms fire.

It was speculated that the surprise strike was directed against the movement of top priority personnel, supplies and Nazi files from Berlin.

"It is supposed to be Hitler's hideout," an air force officer said, adding that if the raiders found railway cars there, "one guess is as good as another as to what they might contain."

Hitler's retreat is at Obersalzberg (Upper Salt mountain) on the edge of Berchtesgaden. The only previous attack on the immediate vicinity (other top Nazi leaders have homes in the area, too) occurred several months ago when a force of American heavies hit Salzburg, Austrian border town just across from Berchtesgaden.

Churchill Faces Commons' Test

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A cry of "power politics" and a charge that the Atlantic Charter was violated in the Big Three's treatment of the Polish issue were raised in Commons today amid reports Prime Minister Churchill would demand a confidence vote next week in connection with the Crimea conference decisions.

U. S. Subs Sink 25 Jap Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (INS)—The Navy announced today that American submarines have sunk a Japanese cruiser, a destroyer, an escort carrier and 22 merchant vessels in Far Eastern waters.

This raises to 110 the number of Japanese combat ships destroyed by American submarines and to 935 the total of non-combatant vessels sunk.

The cruiser sunk was of a converted type and was a former Japanese luxury liner in the 18,000-ton class. It had been turned into a warship larger than any American large cruiser.

In addition to the warships, the submarines listed one medium transport, 14 medium cargo vessels, three small cargo vessels, one large cargo transport, two medium cargo transports and one small transport.

Since the first of the year 111 Japanese vessels have been sunk by submarines which, to date, accounted for two Jap aircraft carriers, 17 cruisers and 46 destroyers.

WESTERN FRONT—Bitter enemy counter-attacks have stopped the Canadian First Army offensive above Calcar after they had effected the capture of Goch, key city on the Siegfried line. Meanwhile, Patton's Third Army surged into enemy strongholds to capture ten towns.

Nazis Admit Soviets Slash Frankfurt-Berlin Lifeline

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Marshal Zhukov's troops, fighting to encircle Frankfurt on the Oder, 38 miles east of Berlin, have "temporarily" slashed the city's lifelines to the capital, a German commentator said today.

The fortress town on the west bank of the Oder is under siege and the constant hammering of Russian artillery and bombers, said the report from inside the city by Transocean War Reporter Hans Arntz.

Marshal Konev's First Ukraine Army drove steadily westward toward the Neisse river stronghold of Guben and the southern end of Berlin's eastern defense wall along the Oder.

Four miles north, Konev's right flank swept through Neuendorf, on the southern bank of the Oder river five miles west of captured Crossen, and rolled on toward the point seven miles away where the Oder is joined by the Neisse before swerving northward past Fuerstenberg, Frankfurt and Kuestrin.

Capture of Crossen firmly joined Konev's northern flank to the southern end of the front steadily strengthened for two weeks by Marshal Zhukov.

Japs Sealed In On Corregidor

MANILA, Feb. 21 (AP)—Medieval siege tactics in modern guise were employed against trapped Japanese garrisons in Manila's thick-walled Intramuros and on Corregidor today as Gen. MacArthur announced the past week's fighting has cost the Nipponese 24,000 casualties.

On Corregidor, both entrances of the main tunnel were blocked by explosives, and Yanks are searching for the ventilation vent. When they find it, the Japanese will be completely sealed off.

Yanks Capture Italian Peak

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP)—American troops striking over Italian mountain terrain so forbidding that at times they used ropes to scramble up the steep slopes, have captured Monte Belvedere and several villages on the peaks west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway.

The Germans fought back viciously, but all counter-attacks were repulsed and the fighting for the dominant heights continues.

Patrols continued active on the rest of the Italian front.

Snooty Dogs Return Home As Hub Show Is Called Off

By ALICE BISSELL

There was simply nothing left for Prunes Own Sensation but to grab a cab with his mistress and take the next train home to his estate at Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

They rolled away from Mechanics Hall looking very aloof and disgusted.

For Prunes, an English setter champion, was one of 527 dogs all smoothed up for the Eastern Dog Club show today, who had to go home when the show was canceled only a few hours before the scheduled time for opening.

If you're the royal dog of Egypt and the oldest breed in the world, you don't much care about the decree of the Office of Defense Transportation, which announced in Washington that no permit had been granted for the exhibit and it would violate the government's request to cancel such events.

Such were Kataf and Sultan, thoroughbred salukis, who surveyed the situation with their cool, aristocratic eyes, and only looked sorry that they couldn't show off their teeth, slender legs, and silken ears which won them blue ribbons at Madison Sq. Garden last week.

But their handler, Emery Wolfe of Farmington, Ct., who brought 23 dogs to exhibit, had plenty to say.

"The expense of bringing them here is great. We have to hire people to help us. We wouldn't kick, but there's no excuse for making the announcement just before the doors open," he said.

Owners were tossed for a loss collectively estimated at $25,000 by the decision of George Putnam, president of the Eastern Dog Club, who said he was taking the action "rather than take the risk of embarrassing any of our exhibitors or members."

Twice thwarted in parading their charms were Winnelby Oaaben, 4-year-old standard schnarzer, and his companion, boxer

Lime for Cabbies

Boston taxicabs will go fancy with a new lime colored license about to be issued for hackney drivers by the Boston police department.

The hackney license color scheme has ranged from prosaic blacks and whites to the brighter oranges, reds and blues—but this is the first lime.

Fifteen hundred are ready for distribution.

They are shaped like a medallion.

Snow, Rain, Sleet Seen for Holiday

Washington's Birthday will bring snow, sleet and rain to Boston, the weather bureau predicted today.

Only an inch of snow was expected before it gives way to sleet and rain. The rain will last all day, however, and the weatherman said much of the present snow will melt.

Soldier's Baby Son, 2, Dies in Maine Fire

KITTERY, Me., Feb. 21 (AP)—Two-year-old Frederick Frizzell became Maine's 28th fire victim in less than four weeks when flames, originating in an oil burner explosion, wrecked his Kittery Point home today.

The baby's father, Pvt. William Frizzell, was inducted into the Army last week and now is en route from Ft. Devens to an undisclosed military camp.

Hyde Park Woman's Death Due to Fumes

Mrs. Anna Costricone, 80, of Readville st., Hyde Park, was accidentally asphyxiated in her home when the flame on a gas burner was extinguished by a draft.

She was discovered on the floor of the bathroom, where she had collapsed from the fumes, by Miss Viola Costricone, her daughter.

Sentence 3 Circus Chiefs to Prison

HARTFORD, Ct., Feb. 21 (AP)—Heavy prison sentences were imposed today on three officials of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus and three other circus men were sent to jail, all for involuntary manslaughter in connection with the circus fire here last July which claimed 168 lives.

George W. Smith, 51, of Sarasota, Fla., general manager, and Leonard S. Aylesworth, 52, chief tent man of Sarasota were given two to seven years in state prison.

James A. Haley, 46-year-old vice-president and director, Sarasota, was sentenced to one to five years in State Prison.

Edward R. Versteeg, 44, chief electrician, Sarasota, and William Caley, 35, chief seatman, Sarasota, were given one year in the county jail, and David W. Blanchfield, 57, chief truckman, Hartford, six months in jail.

At the same time Superior Court Judge Wiliam Shea fined the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., the official name of the concern, $10,000.

All of the defendants and the corporation itself had pleaded no contest to involuntary manslaughter and before passing sentence Judge Shea remarked that this was "equivalent to a plea of guilty."

Earlier, Judge Shea had been told by William E. Hadden, chief counsel for the circus, that pleas of no contest had been agreed to not because he did not believe the charge could not be refuted, but rather to benefit the many civil liability claimants against the circus.

"If we had gone to trial," he asserted, "it would have required eight weeks to try the issues. That would mean that the defendants, all key men in the circus would be kept from the show and that would tie it up for a year.

"If it ceased to function for a year it would cease entirely."

Claims pending against the circus amount to about $3,000,000

Chaplin Calls New Trial "Persecution"

Chaplin Calls Charges 'Lies'

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21 (AP)—Charles Chaplin today branded as "political persecution" recent legislation introduced by Sen. Langer (R.) of North Dakota directing the Attorney-General to investigate the film actor to determine whether he should be deported as an undesirable alien.

"It has been going on since I made an anti-Nazi picture, 'The Great Dictator,' in which I expressed liberal ideas," the 55-year-old English-born Chaplin declared in a statement to the press.

"On account of this picture, I was called to Washington for questioning as a war monger by Sens. Clark and Nye. This investigation fell through after Pearl Harbor.

"The persecution, however, increased after I dared to speak on behalf of Russia, urging the Allies to open a second front. For this, I was bitterly attacked by reactionary columnists using every device to discredit me with the public.

"I believe that in a democracy I have the right to state that I am an internationalist which ideas I expressed in 'The Great Dictator.' But the pro-Nazi and reactionary elements continued their attack.

"Trumped-up charges were the result of all this, inspired by vicious lies written by certain sob sisters using as their tool Joan Barry, who was played up as an innocent girl lured into immoral relations. This point was particularly stressed in the Mann Act trial.

"On the word of this woman and on her accusations, my liberty was jeopardized. I was indicted and compelled to stand trial."

Hulten, Girl Pal To Hang Mar. 8

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The execution date for Karl Gustav Hulten, an American parachute trooper of Cambridge, Mass., and strip tease dancer Elizabeth Jones was set today for March 8.

Both have been convicted of the robbery-slaying of George Heath, London's "cleft chin" taxi driver. An appeal from the earlier conviction was rejected yesterday by a three-man tribunal which held that the jury had been properly charged by the trial judge.

Unless the home secretary's office intervenes, Hulten will be hanged at Pentonville prison and the girl at Holloway prison.

Commutation of the sentence of the dancer, who is a British subject, was regarded as a possibility in view of the jury's recommendation of mercy for her. She was reported under the care of a physician and nurse at Holloway prison today.

GI Dad Fixes It

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21 (AP)—A tiny doll shoe which went to the European war theater for "Daddy" to fix, has been returned, good as new, to its little owner.

Six-year-old June Marlena Ray got a new doll for Christmas. When its right shoe began coming apart, She insisted "Daddy fix it."

Her father, a shoe repair man, is repairing GI shoes for the Quartermaster Corps.

Tributes Paid To Police Hero

Flags on all police buildings in Boston were at half-staff today for Patrolman Frank B. Callahan, 54, of Brighton, father of five children, who died at City Hospital from wounds suffered in an attempt to capture the killer of two aged holdup victims

Today, also, the body of Patrick Devlin, 26, medically discharged Navy veteran who was mortally wounded by Callahan's partner, Patrolman Francis Connerney, was buried in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham, following a requiem mass in St. Mary's Church, Waltham.

Full military honors will be accorded the slain patrolman Friday at funeral services in Brighton, with solemn high mass of requiem in St. Columbkille's Church at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

The death of Callahan brought to four the number of holdup victims. The others were, besides Devlin, Mr. and Mrs. David Pearlstein of Allston, shot down in their Washington st., South End, pawnshop last Saturday night by Devlin.

State Rep. Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton will file a bill in the Legislature today, calling for payment of $5000 to the family of Patrolman Callahan, in addition to annuity payments of $1000 to the widow as long as she remains unmarried, and $200 for each child under 18.

At rollcall in all stations a tribute from Police Commr. Sullivan was read, praising Callahan's devotion to duty.

Home Canners Get Less Sugar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The OPA pulled the draw string on the sugar sack even tighter today with a cut in allotments for home canning.

For the 1945 canning season housewives will be able to obtain a maximum of 20 pounds for each member of the family up to eight instead of last year's 25 pounds with no limit on the number receiving an allowance.

And unlike last year, when five pounds of the 25-pound maximum for each member of the family could be obtained by merely presenting sugar stamp No. 40, all allotments must be obtained from local rationing boards.

Tanks Quell Munich Riot, Moscow Reports

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Moscow radio today reported disorders in Munich which developed into a pitched street battle with tank-supported SS (Elite Guard) units intervening after the city's police refused to fire on civilian crowds.

"The police had to be disarmed and many were sent to the Dachau concentration camp for refusing to shoot," the German language broadcast said.

Ingenuity Wins Honor For Lawrence Man

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP)—Using only a screwdriver and pliers, Armand P. Fuggee, of 23 Quincy st., Lawrence, Mass., repaired the shot-out hydraulic system of his Flying Fortress in time to enable the big bomber to land safely on its home base.

At the AAF redistribution station here, the engineer gunner was awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal for the work.

Hirohito Gets Morale Report

By Associated Press

The Japanese Domei News Agency said today that four civil administrators told Emperor Hirohito yesterday that "despite air raids, earthquakes and a lack of foods, there was no need for concern over public peace and order."

The officials represented districts which include the big industrial cities of Nagoya, Kobe, Osaka and the Kyushu region, where there are great heavy industries.

Wait New Bedford Reply to Work Plea

The reaction of organized labor to the WMC order for transfer of skilled textile workers in New Bedford mills to jobs in tire cord plants was awaited today after an urgent appeal by national war leaders asking workers to accept voluntarily the change to combat the critical shortage of material.

The appeal was in a telegram received by Mayor Arthur N. Harriman, chairman of the New Bedford Citizens' Committee, who has led the protest against the WMC order transferring workers from other businesses to jobs at the Fisk and Firestone tire cord plants.

Signed by Undersecretary of War Patterson, WPB Chairman Krug, WMC Chairman McNutt and Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the Navy, the telegram urged:

"The lives of thousands of American soldiers depend on getting more tires to the western front. Right now the shortage is acute . . . In behalf of Gen. Eisenhower's soldiers we urge that qualified workers come forth at once to fill every need in the New Bedford plants. Production of cord is the No. 1 war job for the patriotic people of New Bedford."

The telegram was received shortly after Judge Wyzanski in Boston Federal Court declined to issue a temporary restraining order to halt the proposed transfer of workers, which becomes effective tomorrow. The injunction was sought by the Textile Workers' Union of America, CIO.

At the same time, the WMC in Boston announced its intention of invoking "forced manpower" regulations to obtain 2000 workers for war jobs in local plants.

Hunger Striker Bishop Stages Another Protest

Corbitt Bishop, whose draft troubles as a conscientious objector caused him to go on two hunger strikes in the past few years, is given authorities trouble again.

He caused a traffic tieup outside the Philadelphia federal building when he refused to walk from the courtroom to a waiting police van and was dragged bodily through the crowd by husky police officers.

One of Bishop's hunger strikes was started at a West Campton, N. H., camp for conscientious objectors in June, 1943, protesting "forced labor" by those quartered at the camp because of their objections to military service.

Earlier that year he had thrown in a 21-day hunger strike which had nothing to do with his feelings about selective service. This was a fast in sympathy with one which Mohandas Gandhi was carrying on at the timee.

His first recorded hunger strike, which lasted 45 days, was in August, 1942, at an objectors' camp near Elkbridge, Md., in protest against the refusal of authorities to grant him leave to close up his bookshop business in West New York, N. J.

Hub Navy Doctor Found Dead

ARLINGTON, Va., Feb. 21 (AP)—Navy Lt. Robert Sanderson, 41, formerly of Boston, was found dead today in the yard of his home here.

Police said the body was found by a neighbor and Sanderson apparently had been dead three or four hours. There were no marks of violence.

Sanderson, a Medical Corps officer, was stationed at the Navy Department in Washington. He was a Boston physician before entering the Navy two years ago and formerly lived at Dedham, Mass. He received his medical degree from Harvard.

His widow and four children survive.

Lt. Sanderson Made Home in Dedham

Lt. Robert Sanderson, USN Medical Corps, who died suddenly in Arlington, Va., served his internship here at the Faulkner Hospital, Jamaica Plain, and the Boston City Hospital, surgical service, after graduating from Harvard Medical School.

During his internship he made his home in Dedham.

He was the son of Dr. E. T. Sanderson of Mineotz, Mass.

WELANSKY GUILTY ON TAX CHARGES

Changing his plea from not guilty to guilty at the opening of his federal court trial on tax evasion charges today, Barnet Welansky, owner of the ill-fated Cocoanut Grove night club, was given a suspended sentence of two years and placed on probation for one year.

After the court appearance he was returned to Norfolk prison colony where he is serving a 12-to-15-year sentence on manslaughter charges in connection with the deaths of 499 persons in the Nov. 28, 1942, holocaust.

Jacob Goldfine, the club steward, and Otto Spiller, accountant, Welansky's co-defendants, also changed their pleas to guilty.

Goldfine was given a suspended sentence of six months and Spiller a suspended term of one year. Both were placed on one-year probation.

Judge Arthur D. Healey imposed the suspended sentences upon recommendation of Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph M. Hargeden and Walter M. Campbell, special representative of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, Welansky's counsel, appealed for leniency, declaring:

"Welansky has suffered enough for his connection with Cocoanut Grove."

Mail O. K. for Freed Manila Internees

Mail for American military and civilian internees in the Philippines, whose liberation has been reported, is now being accepted, Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly announced today.

Connelly said that for the present such mail is limited to letters and post cards only, prepaid at the air mail postage rate of 6 cents per half ounce or fraction. Mail should be addressed with the name of the individual, American Red Cross, Civilian War Affairs Section, APO 442, care of Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal.

Extra State Gas Tax Protested

Calling for orgainzed opposition to an additional one cent per gallon tax on gasoline, the Massachusetts Petroleum Industries Committee asserted today the increase was "taxation without justification" and was not needed to finance a proposed postwar highway construction program.

In a statement the committee declared the proposed tax increase was "unnecessary at a time when we have enough money on hand and in sight to finance the $75,000,000 State and federal-aid highway program."

Police Probe Death Of Abandoned Baby

Everett police today began an investigation of the death of a new-born girl whose body, wrapped in a man's overcoat and stuffed into a seaman's canvas bag, was found in Clinton st, near Everett sq. by Patrolman John H. MacDonald.

Medical examiner Andrew P. Guthrie reported death due to strangulation and suffocation.

Long, Hard Push

When your car gets stuck in a snowbank its usually all right to ask a passing cruiser car for help—provided you haven't stolen the car.

Braintree Doctor Freed From Prison in Manila

Three years of heartache and uncertai nty ended today for Mrs. Catherine B. Sawyer of Monatiquot ave., Braintree, with official word from the Navy Department that her doctor husband, imprisoned after the fall of Manila in 1942, was safe again in American hands.

"This is wonderful news," she said happily as she read the Navy Department notification. "There are no words to express my joy after these three years of uncertainty and worry."

Her husband, Lt. Joseph Harlan Sawyer, USNR, was sent to the Philippines in Sept., 1941, on a Navy medical assignment.

"I received five cables from him at various times until the fall of Manila in January, 1942," she said. "But I had received only a few prisoner of war cards saying he was well. Some of them were not even signed."

Notification of his rescue from a Japanese prison camp by Gen. MacArthur's forces came in a telegram from V. Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, which read:

"The Navy Department is pleased to inform you that official information just received from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters states that your husband, Lt. Joseph Harlan Sawyer, USNR, last reported to be a prisoner of war, has been rescued by our forces and returned to military control. His condition is reported as fair. Further details will be forwarded promptly when received."

Lt. Sawyer is the son of Mrs. Helen Sawyer of Arlington.

His wife, Catherine, is a registered nurse.

Although elated at word that his niece, Mrs. Ann Worcester Harrell, had been liberated from Jap imprisonment, Dr. Hilbert F. Day of Kirkland st., Cambridge, still was concerned over the whereabouts of her husband and parents.

The four, he said, were captured in Manila by the Japanese and interned in the Santo Tomas Prison, he had learned from the Red Cross and from exchange prisoners returning on the first voyage of the Gripsholm.

Ann, he said, was born in the Philippines, but had been educated in this country, studying at the Bancroft School, Worcester, and the Cambridge School for Girls. Her sister now is studying at Bryn Mawr.

She returned to the Philippines to be married, he said.

Her father and his brother, Kenneth B. Day, had lived for some years in the Philippines, where he was a manufacturer of cocoanut oil for Lever Bros., Cambridge soap concern.

Beverly Fire Razes Temple

BEVERLY, Feb. 21—A spectacular general-alarm fire, believed of incendiary origin, destroyed the Sons of Abraham Congregation synagogue and the Jewish Community Center in the downtown business section early today, causing damage estimated at $50,000.

Heat from the flames in the three-story frame building was so intense that firemen ordered the evacuation of more than 30 persons from nearby homes and buildings.

Mrs. A. J. Marquis, 32, who lives in Bow st., directly across from the synagogue, discovered the fire and spread the alarm by telephone.

Murmansk Saga Told by Hub Man

An affidavit signed by Merchant Seaman Peter J. Hyde of Boston, filed today with the New York County public administrator, recalled one of the war's outstanding sea sagas, in which the steamship Ballot, en route from Boston to Murmansk three years ago, was bombed and sunk by a German plane.

The affidavit accompanied a petition for letters of administration in the estate of Seaman Karl J. Fritiof of Sweden, shipmate of Hyde, who was one of 10 to die from exposure in one of the Ballot's lifeboats and had had to be thrown into the sea.

Seaman Hyde, now a patient at the Brighton Marine Hospital, who lost all toes on both feet in the grim fight to live, is one of 24 survivors of the Ballot's crew of 60 men, 11 of whom took to two lifeboats.

Hyde, rescued by a Russian minesweeper, wears the Medal of Honor, Medal of Conduct and two Oak Leaf Clusters awarded by the British War Ministry, and a citation presented by Prime Minister Churchill for heroic action.

Warns of Nazi Abuse of PWs

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Richard F. Allen, vice-chairman of the American National Red Cross, says American prisoners of war in Germany are being marched deeper into the Reich through temperatures 30 degrees below zero, without proper clothing.

Allen, in charge of insular and foreign operations for the Red Cross, told the Brooklyn branch yesterday that those who have someone in the German prison camps "must be ready for bad news."

"I am sorry to tell you," he added, "that with the structure of Germany breaking up, there is real cause for concern for our prisoners of war."

Baby Kidnap Trial Near Jury's Hands

FT. WORTH, Tex., Feb. 21 (AP)—Both state and defense attorneys indicated they thought the case of the pretty 19-year-old Army flier's wife, on trial here on a charge of kidnaping 2-month-old Milly McGill, would go to the jury today.

Mrs. C. E. Branson, wife of a Laredo, Tex., Army air field instructor, is charged with kidnaping the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McGill of Ft. Worth Jan. 9. The baby was found in a San Antonio bus station next day.

Mrs. McGill has filed suit for divorce from her husband and asked that custody of Milly be given to Mrs. Branson.

A doctor, whose name was not disclosed—the second to be called to the stand by the defense—was to testify today. The prosecution said it would put eight rebuttal witnesses on the stand today, most of them to testify as to Mrs. Branson's character.

The defense has indicated it would plead temporary insanity.

Mrs. Branson's mother, Mrs. O. H. Fincher of Fort Worth, testified yesterday that her daughter lost a premature baby Dec. 20.

Dr. Thomas W. Grice, on the witness stand, said a small percentage of women go insane in such cases.

Lt. Branson, tall, red-headed husband of the defendant, took the stand and testified his wife "acted plain crazy" the day after the abduction.

Senate Considers Warren Ouster Order

The order filed with the State Senate calling for removal of State Education Comr. Julius E. Warren, for presiding at a forum on American-Soviet friendship was scheduled for debate today. A similar order was rejected by the House on Monday.

3 Youths Seized In Slugging, Theft

Three 17-year-old youths were captured after a wild chase early today, following a brutal attack and robbery of James Hart, 40, of Highland st., Roxbury.

Hart was approaching his home when set upon by the three young thugs, who beat him to the ground and took his wallet, containing only three dollars.

The fugitive trio was spotted in the neighborhood after a search by Patrolmen Donald McMillan and John Costello of the Roxbury Crossing station. The chase led through vacant lots, back yards and over fences, until the three were cornered under the steps of a house.

Desperate Rats

By The Associated Press

Radio Tokyo today said the commander-in-chief of Iwo Jima has issued an order of the day declaring:

"The forces of occupation must defend the island of Iwo to their last drops of blood. With explosives and by shock tactics they will annihilate the enemy soldiers and their weapons.

"Every shot fired must be a direct hit and not one Japanese ought to die before he has killed 10 enemy soldiers."

Playgrounds Opening Nears

An immediate survey of Boston playground facilities was ordered today by Mayor Kerrigan as the first step toward getitng the grounds and equipment in shape for spring.

In a letter to the park commission Kerrigan called for repair of locker rooms and showers and replacement of damaged or obsolete equipment.

Kerrigan said he wanted the playgrounds 'used to the utmost" in order to keep children from playing in streets.

Blood Given, Boy Set for Operation

Reported considerably improved as the result of blood transfusions, Leonard Muccioli, 11, bonfire victim, was ready today to undergo the first in a series of skin grafting operations at Cambridge Hospital.

For the operations, the lad required a rare type of blood which was provided by volunteers who responded to an appeal by doctors, published in the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

NOW WHO IS THE BOSS?—Sgt. Irving Gershon, of the Engineers, and his bride, WAC Major Ruth Spivak of Chicago, cut their wedding cake following nuptials at Washington, D. C., where they are stationed. Now they face the problem of who is boss, the sergeant or the major.

A Freed Hero's Homecoming

By ERNEST LENN
San Francisco Examiner Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21—The tomorrow he thought would never dawn has finally become today for a shell of a man from Camp Cabanatuan.

Lt. Emmet Manson, Navy dentist, was back in the States at last, after three years of Jap imprisonment in the Philippines — first of the freed Bataan-Corregidor heroes to arrive here.

And today, still wearing the scars of his suffering, he did the things he planned for the day when he would be back in America.

First, he just stood on a downtown street corner, drinking in the sights and sounds of civilization.

He was hollow-eyed, emaciated, weakened by beri-beri and months of hunger, looking older than his 38 years, down from 175 pounds to 140.

And as he stood on this street corner now, an occasional gob would pass him—would look at the gaunt man in the odd uniform, would see the lieutenant's bars, and salute. Lt. Manson proudly returned those salutes.

Suddenly he began to shiver. A chill was upon him. There was a touch of spring in the air. But in his light tropical garb, with his blood thinned by vitamin deficiency, he had to move on. When he walked he limped painfully. Beri-beri had stiffened his right leg.

He made his way into a restaurant. For a long time he sat there, feasting his eyes on the varied foods on the menu. He remembered Cabanatuan.

He remembered the food there. The daily allotment of rice, spread over three "meals," would only fill one drinking glass. For breakfast, you got a portion of it in a dish called lu-gow, steamed and watery. For lunch and dinner, you got your rice in the form of watery soup, with leaves and radish tops added.

Of course, that left you still hungry. So you'd trap dogs—and eat them. They tasted sweet, like veal. You'd scramble for frogs and lizards.

Now Lt. Manson trudged to the hotel. He passed theaters, stood gazing at the marquees, pictures of the stars.

He passed a store, went in and did what he had dreamed of doing. He ordered shirts, socks, underwear, a dress uniform, an overcoat. He fingered them, lovingly. They were so clean, so soft.

At his hotel, now, he registered. He had no luggage. He went up to his room. His feet sank into the soft rug. He drank in the warmth and comfort. He plopped himself down on the springy bed. He went to the tile bathroom, turned on the faucet, watched the water flow. Running water.

And now, somewhat oriented, he was ready for the thing he dreamed of most; his first day back in the states, when he would telephone his family in Worthington, Minn.

There were his mother and father, his wife, Doralyce, and their boy, Frank. Lt. Manson last saw them in May, 1941. Frank was a cooing infant of 11 months then. Now he's almost five years old.

The Examiner put through the call to the lieutenant's family. Back in that Minnesota town, the family was just sitting down to dinner when the phone rang. The lieutenant talked to all his folks—even to Frank.

"Hello, Daddy!" said the boy, who doesn't remember his father, but whose mother has continually told the lad about his dad. "Come home, quick—we're going fishing—I know how—I can even put a worm on the hook . . ."

Any day now, the lieutenant will be leaving San Francisco to go back home. He has a 30-day leave. He won't be bringing back any souvenirs with him. But he will take home memories of his ordeal, indelibly seared in his mind. Memories such as . . .

The fall of Corregidor . . . Bilibid prison . . . Cabanatuan, far worse than Bilibid . . . And the rescue from Cabanatuan . . . And his first glimpse of the American Flag, and the food—all you wanted—back at the American Evacuation Hospital . . . And his first day in San Francisco, his first day back in the States.

Intruder Explains --But Not All

A 43-year-old South End man admitted sheepishly in the police lineup today he had set foot where few males dare to tread.

He agreed he had traveled as far as the third floor of the Franklin Square House, a residence exclusively for mone, but insisted he was only looking for a place to "wash his hands."

The fact he was carrying a clock, which ordinarily reposed in a third-floor room, when he started to leave the building was not so readily explained.

It was not until he returned to the first floor that his pesence was discovered by the night superintendent. She quickly locked the door and summoned police.

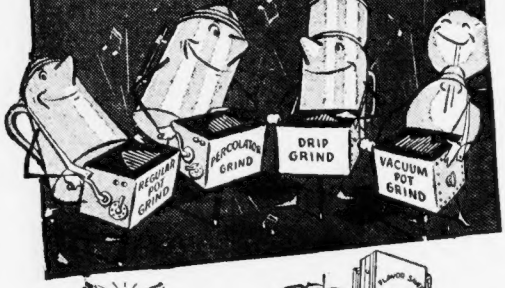
Get Coffee that's
5 Ways Better
. . . IT'S CUSTOM GROUND!



1. TUNED TO YOUR COFFEEPOT!
Correct grinding of fresh coffee really makes a difference! You see, one grind will not produce the best results in all coffeepots—that's why A&P Coffee is Custom Ground at the minute you buy . . . precisely right for YOUR coffeemaker. Just tell the clerk to grind your fresh A&P Coffee for Percolator, Drip Pot, Regular Pot, or Vacuum Pot—take it home and brew the best cup of Coffee you've had in ages.

2. SUPERB QUALITY!
A&P Coffee buyers in South America search for pick of plantation coffee. You get superb quality in every pound.

3. "FLAVOR-SAVER" ROASTED!
There's an art to roasting coffee so that all the full, rich flavor is developed. And A&P's exclusive "Flavor-Saver" roasting process is that art at its best! A&P Coffee is roasted to flavor peak.

4. FRESHER IN THE BEAN!
The secret of good coffee lies in freshness! Coffees that are preground days or weeks before they are sold, can't possibly give you the full-flavored goodness of roaster-fresh coffee—freshly ground. That's why A&P Coffee is sold to you in the bean—just as it comes from the roaster!

5. YOUR BLEND—Tastes Better!
Because tastes in coffee differ—as they do in hats—A&P Coffee comes to you in a blend to suit your taste. Come—select the blend that suits you—get real enjoyment—and more of it—from the coffee you drink!

Railroads Blamed In Looting Cases

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Col. E. H. Qualls of Nashville, Tenn., testified today that American railroads were partly to blame for the poor quality of some railway operating battalion officers overseas.

Qualls was a witness at the trial of Maj. Walter H. Marlin, charged with neglect of duty in failure to prevent looting of supply trains.

"Marlin's background in civil life was that of a locomotive engineer—which does not qualify him to command 800 men," the officer testified.

He said the railways, instead of giving men with executive experience, followed a policy of "letting us have the men they could spare."

USS Pattison to Be Commissioned

The USS William J. Pattison, originally built as a destroyer escort, but converted and completed as a high-speed transport, will be commissioned at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Hingham yard Tuesday, Feb. 27, First Naval District headquarters announced today.

Named in honor of the late William Joseph Pattison, signalman 3c, USN, of Marion, Ind., the craft was sponsored by Pattison's fiancee, Miss Sally McKillop, of 156 South st., Jamaica Plain.

75 Driven to Street By Cambridge Fire

Fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated furnace, caused heavy damage today in the grant building in Cantral sq., Cambridge and forced some 75 persons to flee.

The fire started in the basement and worked up through the walls, damaging the second-floor offices of Atty. Frederick F. Meuse and Henry Haverty, real estate dealer. The first-floor stationery store of James H. O'Brien also suffered from smoke and water.

Senate Speeds Manpower Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The work-or-jail bill was shunted into a siding today while the Senate military committee worked out a substitute measure strengthening the WMC's authority to correct labor shortages.

The committee's reluctance—obvious for two weeks—to accept the House-approved manpower bill with its drastic penalties crystallized in a 12 to 6 vote to take up a substitute offered by Sen. O'Mahoney and five other senators.

1944—OUR GREATEST WAR YEAR

...A bird's eye view of wartime railroading in SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND

Throughout this third high-pressure war year, your railroad echoed night and day with the rumble and roar of long passenger and freight trains.

Troops—war materials—food and fuel for southern New England homes and factories—service men and women on furlough—civilians on urgent personal and business errands—all reached their destinations despite the difficulties resulting from wartime conditions.

The men and women of our railroad did their work well—handling the tremendous freight and passenger volume—shouldering the added responsibilities resulting from acute manpower shortages throughout the year.

Our riders and shippers contributed their share to the success of this greatest war year by their wholehearted cooperation—and their patience and understanding of our problems.

The day is not far distant, we hope, when we will be able to provide the kind of postwar rail service that our friends and neighbors of southern New England expect. Until then we thank you for your help and cooperation.

Donald Duck Helps Servicemen's Fund

Thanks to Donald Duck, America's favorite animated cartoon character, the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Hospitalized Servicemen's Fund was more than $2400 richer today.

This was the amount realized by the fund from the premiere of Walt Disney's sparkling new technicolor feature, "The Three Caballeros," starring the comedy duck, at the Majestic Theater.

Donald's convulsing antics in wooing a real, live Latin lovely, the exotic Aurora Miranda, thrilled a capacity audience, which included 250 wounded servicemen who attended as guests of the Hearst Boston newspapers.

The picture, presenting cartoon characters and real actors on the same screen for the first time, marks an innovation in film entertainment. The two blended perfectly to provide uproarious comedy as Donald Duck and his animated buddies, Joe Carioca and Panchito, intermingled with Aurora Miranda and her alluring supporters, Carmen Molina and Dora Luce.

In addition to the feature picture, the premiere took on a Hollywood first night atmosphere as Boston stage, radio and night club stars presented a novelty stage show, which got under way with orchestral selections directed by Tony Bruno of the Latin Quarter.

Rosario and Antonio, Spanish gypsies, combined old world dances with modern jazz music in their specialty, and Germaine, song stylist, followed with numbers which brought applause from the wounded servicemen. Peter Donald, conductor of the radio show "Can You Top This?" put the audience through plenty of mental paces with his guessing games.

Ann Corio, long a favorite of Boston fans, and Dr. Giovanni, "pickpocket de luxe," from the Hotel Statler supper room, also gave sparkling performances.

Others on the star-studded bill were Johnny Howard, comedian from the Club Mayfair, the Whitney Sisters from the Latin Quarter, the Amory Brothers, vocal quartet, and Arthur Lee Simpkins, Latin Quarter singing star.

Street Car Buyer Starts Jail Term

OMAHA, Feb. 21 (AP)—A young farmer who, according to testimony by a girl street car operator, apparently thought those street car tokens you put in the box apply on the purchase of a street car, started a 25-day jail term today in addition to being fined $25.

Mary Ann Lesley, 19, told the court that Darrel Backus, 22, boarded the car she was operating, seized the controls and told her, "You're fired—I own this street car company and I'm taking over."

"He said he had been putting money in that box every day and he figured he just about owned the street car," Miss Lesley testified.

New England Mutual's

101st ANNUAL REPORT

Begins Company's second century of operations with consistent progress and record strength

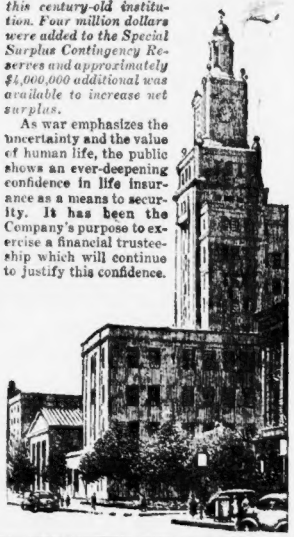
SOME of the year's results, because of wartime influences, have been both unpredictable and surprising. It might have been expected that many people would be unable to purchase or hold life insurance because of increased taxes and living costs.

Instead, our new insurance sales were the greatest on record, and insurance lapsed and surrendered was at an all-time low. New England Mutual's total insurance in force is now four times as much as it was 25 years ago, at the end of 1919.

General civilian health has been amazingly good, and while every single war death is a personal tragedy to some family, war fatalities as a whole among our policyholders have not yet increased the Company's mortality experience beyond that of normal peacetime years.

The facts in the panel and the increase in surplus funds give dynamic proof of the vitality and strength of this century-old institution. Four million dollars were added to the Special Surplus Contingency Reserves and approximately $4,000,000 additional was available to increase net surplus.

As war emphasizes the uncertainty and the value of human life, the public shows an ever-deepening confidence in life insurance as a means to security. It has been the Company's purpose to exercise a financial trusteeship which will continue to justify this confidence.



FACTS AT A GLANCE

Total Insurance in Force	$1,897,000,000
Increase of $119,000,000 over last year. Increase since 1929, $695,000,000 or 58%.
New Life Insurance Issued	$ 170,562,000
27% more than in 1943, and an all-time high.
Insurance Lapsed and Surrendered	1.1%
of mean amount of insurance in force. An all-time recorded low.
Mortality Experience	81%
of that expected according to tabular rate. (This includes war fatalities, which amounted to 15%, of all 1944 death claims.)
Assets	$ 690,779,000
Nearly three times the 1929 figure. Increase of $63,066,000 over last year.
Liabilities	$ 648,770,000
Includes policyholders' reserves and funds on deposit of $634,400,000, and $10,200,000 for 1945 dividends.
Special Surplus Contingency Funds	$ 12,000,000
Increase of $4,000,000. Security Fluctuation Reserve of $9,000,000. Real Estate and Mortgage Fund of $3,000,000.
Net Surplus	$ 30,009,000
Increase of $3,973,000 over last year.

1,000,000 persons in Massachusetts now have

Blue Cross Hospital Care

1 out of every 4

ARE YOU AND YOURS PROTECTED?

FOR only a few cents a day, Blue Cross pays your hospital bills! No medical examination or questionnaire for group membership. If you work where there are 5 people or more, ask your employer or communicate with Blue Cross.

Just the other day, the millionth member joined the Massachusetts Blue Cross (there are over 17,000,000 members in America). That means that one person in every four in Massachusetts is now protected.

The Blue Cross has a convenient arrangement whereby your bill is paid directly to the hospital. No troublesome financial questions at a time when health comes first. No claims to file.

MILLIONTH BLUE CROSS MEMBER IN MASSACHUSETTS . . . Bjarne Svendsen shown with Blue Cross representative at his lathe in the Dennison Manufacturing Co., Framingham, Mass. . . . 1,518 members now have Blue Cross protection.

The Blue Cross is the only plan sponsored by the hospitals of Massachusetts. It provides the finest hospital care for you and your family at a great saving to you!

A sick person needs SERVICE, not cash. Blue Cross pays for hospital services regardless of cost. This actual bill paid recently by Blue Cross shows why non-profit SERVICE benefits are best:

Room and meals	$167.75
Use of Operating room	10.00
Laboratory services	25.25
Medications and dressings	43.80
Oxygen	317.00
Intravenous solution	66.00
	$629.80

These are not the largest amounts paid for items shown, nor is it the largest bill ever paid. One bill included $215.00 for penicillin alone.

Maternity benefits are included in group membership.

If you work where there is no Blue Cross group, speak to your employer. Special memberships for individuals and families. Also, send in the coupon for further information.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT HOSPITAL BILLS! All Blue Cross group members are entitled to receive without charge—semi-private accommodations in member hospitals—30 days (each admission) of the finest hospital care money can buy, plus a 50% discount for an additional 90 days. Liberal allowances for hospital care in a private room or in a non-member hospital anywhere in the world.

THIS GROUP PROTECTION COSTS YOU only 85 cents a month for the individual; $1.65 a month for husband and wife; and $2.00 a month for husband, wife and all unmarried children under 19 years of age.

NO RED TAPE. DON'T DELAY. Just fill out the coupon below and we will send you complete information concerning membership.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Several inquiries have been received from veterans, discharged over 38 years of age to enter defense work, regarding Congressional action to obtain mustering-out pay. During the final stages of mustering-out legislation they were eliminated.

Veterans interested in an amendment to the original act to include above mentioned, are informed that Congressman Charles R. Clason, of Springfield has filed H. R. 1509 seeking discharge benefits, in their behalf.

Q—I was discharged from active service with the Naval Reserve in July, 1941, because of family dependency. I have always been II-A in draft classification and recently changed to 1-C. What does this mean. I have nothing wrong with me physically? Will I be recalled?

. A. O., Somerville.

A—1-C designates you as an ex-serviceman and under present Selective Service directives you are not subject to re-induction.

Q—I have been informed that honorable discharge pins may be purchased in certain stores. I was under the impression that the only way to obtain pin was on presentation of discharge at army post or installation."

C. D., Cambridge.

A Sale of honorably discharged buttons is in violation of such as subject to federal, state and local. If you have information of such establishment selling buttons, Military Intelligence, First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston, would appreciate evidence.

Q—What is the ruling regarding G. I.'s honorably discharged and working in defense plants. Can they change jobs? Also does a veteran receiving medical discharge, necessarily have to enter defense work? N. Boston

A—Under War Manpower Commission ruling World War II veterans are not "frozen" in defense jobs. Discharged veterans are not compelled to accept defense jobs. If you are having difficulty consult local U. S. Employment Agency and ask to exercise rights as veteran.

Q—What is the difference between service-connected disability and disability in line of duty. Which is entitled to compensation after discharge? B. J., Fargo Barracks.

A—No difference on question No. 1. All veterans who prove service-connected disability are entitled to pension. The term "compensation" has been suspended in World War II cases.

(Questions submitted Veterans' Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered.)

Sports, Handicraft Form YW Program for Wives

Sports and handicraft, two of the favorite pastimes of 18 to 35-year-old women in general, should be included in any program for the benefit of wives of servicemen, according to Miss Marcia Seeber, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

"The experience we at the YW have had with G. I. wives is of two sorts," Miss Seeber explained, commenting on plans being set up to establish a local city-wide program of aid and entertainment for wives of men in uniform.

"We have, of course, helped with personal services and counseling, but we have also included some of these girls in our regular schedule of events for 18-to-35-year-old women in general.

"We find that these young women are most responsive to activity programs in the gym, swimming pool or dance studios, and in the arts and crafts classes. I'm pleading for us to remember that this group of women likes to take part in real activity as well as discussion groups.

"They are normal women who are living in abnormal circumstances, but who like the same things as do other girls of the same age."

The program for GI wives, mothers and sweethearts is being set up by a special committee of community leaders under the chairmanship of Mayor Kerrigan. The YW is being represented on the committee by one of its directors, Mrs. Stephen Gifford who has pioneered in working with servicemen's wives as one of the founding sponsors of the Officers' Wives' Club now active at the YW.

Curfew Termed Prohibition Try

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (INS) — Night club owners continued today to lay plans for complying with War Mobilizer Byrnes' new midnight curfew, with most of them advancing their opening hours in order to cram in as much entertainment as possible before the earlier closing.

Meanwhile, Billy Rose, vice-president of the cafe owners guild and owner of the Diamond Horseshoe, charged that a multi-million-dollar prohibition lobby in Washington was responsible for the new order.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Syrup. It's Fine

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known medicine mixed in your own kitchen, costs little, but it gives delightful, swift acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. It saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Here's Fine Way To Mark Holiday

Make Washington's Birthday a real wartime holiday by donating a pint of blood to help save the life of a serviceman.

This was the appeal made today by officials at the Red Cross Blood Donor Center, 485 Boylston st.

Vitally in need of blood donors to meet the quota for plasma established by the Army and Navy, the Red Cross pointed out that all the blood given in Boston to date has been donated by less than 20 per cent of those eligible.

"Many of those who have not yet given have been prevented by unusual working conditions," Chairman Alan R. Morse said. "The holiday offers an excellent opportunity for first-time donors to visit the Boston center. We will be open our usual hours, from 8:45 a. m. to 8:15 p. m."

READERS DISCUSS CLEARY BILL

SHOULD landlords be punished by fines and jail sentences for barring children from tenement houses and apartment buildings?

Rep. David M. Cleary of Boston says "YES." He feels so strongly about the matter that he is pressing his fight for a law to prohibit "no children allowed" policies, although his bill seeking such a prohibition has been referred to the next session of the Legislature.

If Mr. Cleary's campaign receives sufficient support and the statute he wants is passed, children will be welcome everywhere and those who do not welcome them will find themselves in court or prison.

Hundreds have written us concerning Mr. Cleary's bill. Hundreds more will undoubtedly voice their opinions today and tomorrow.

Here are extracts from typical letters:

"Of course Representative Cleary's bill must pass. What right has any owner of property to force birth control on other persons? Barring children from tenement property is birth control in a particularly vicious and cowardly form."

"We shall need millions of children to replace the lives lost in this war. All persons, especially young persons who generally live in tenements, should be urged to have as many children as they can. For that reason, the Legislature MUST PASS Mr. Cleary's bill."

"THE LIFE OF A SINGLE CHILD IS INFINITELY MORE PRECIOUS THAN ALL THE TENEMENT HOUSES IN BOSTON. WE MUST STOP THIS PAGAN PRACTICE OF BARRING CHILDREN FROM RENTED PROPERTY. IT IS WHOLLY AGAINST THE PUBLIC INTEREST. IN FACT, IT BORDERS ON RACE SUICIDE. PASS REPRESENTATIVE CLEARY'S BILL, I SAY."

"Does Mr. Cleary speak as one having had experience in renting property to others? Never before have children been so destructive. Self-protection compels many property owners to prohibit them."

"I will sell my house if Mr. Cleary and the Legislature compel me to accept undesirable children. The house belongs to me. I am entitled to some protection."

"Such a law as Mr. Cleary proposes is as near Germany as anything I can imagine. It certainly is against the Constitution of the good old U. S. A."

"I am a discharged war veteran. I thought I was fighting for freedom. But now I learn I must open my house to brats."

"I rented my house to a couple with two girls, age five and seven years. They put up a trapeze between the doors, also swings. Then they took acrobatic lessons which included hand-springs and landing on all fours. Finally, they took up manual training and used my window sills for carpenter's benches. I appealed to the police, the OPA, City Hall and every other agency, but received no satisfaction. As you can easily imagine, my house is a complete wreck."

"Representative Cleary is starting too much trouble for us landlords. He should leave well enough alone."

"I SPEAK FROM SAD EXPERIENCE. AFTER FIVE YEARS OF MARRIAGE MY HUSBAND AND I HAD A LITTLE GIRL. THE PRESENT FROM OUR LANDLORD WAS AN EVICTION NOTICE."

"Pagan Rome barred children and we all know what happened to Pagan Rome. If our civilization is to endure, we must have laws in every State like the one Mr. Cleary has written for Massachusetts."

GENERAL MACARTHUR is a cigar smoker. That has always been the claim of this department. However, many of the customers have recently been sending me pictures of the general with a corn cob pipe in his mouth. The attention of these readers is called to the following excerpt from a recent dispatch sent from the Philippine Islands by War Correspondent Lee Van Atta: "General MacArthur smokes big cigars while driving. At other times he pulls on an unlighted pipe."

FATHERS: For a year before marriage a young man should go on a special diet as a preparation for becoming a father. That is what men of science continue to state. A feature of this diet is cod liver oil and orange juice. Husbands who have not yet become fathers should also be put on this diet. So should those who are the father of one child but are desirous of increasing their family. So keep this in mind, ladies. Make your fiance or husband take his cod liver oil and orange juice regularly. This according to the experts will help make your offspring healthy from the start.

POSTWAR: In that beautiful postwar world the manufacturers will offer for sale cigarets of different colors. The idea is to make the color of the cigaret match the smoker's attire, personality or mood. That is to say, when wearing a green dress a female will smoke green cigarets. Red-haired women will smoke red cigarets to match their hair. Girls who are carrying the torch or feeling sad for some reason will smoke blue cigarettes. I suppose it will also be appropriate for a girl to smoke a blue cigaret when she is out with a Yale man.

TALL HEROINES: How many tall heroines of fiction can you name? By tall I mean five feet eight inches in height or over, like Lois De Fee. If you can think of three tall and terrific heroines of best sellers you are doing well. The lengthy ladies have never been given much of a break by the novelists. Anyway, Hazel Heidergott is writing a novel in which she says the heroine is described as being "five feet eight in her sheerest chiffon hose and addicted to three-inch heels."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—I am 35 and in love with a young man of 24. Is there too much difference in ages to hope for a happy marriage? What have your Horses & Women experts to say about this? A—Our experts say the records reveal, when older women marry younger men they have as much chance of happiness as the rest of the brides. In each, their chances are a little less. That is if the difference in ages is not more than 12 years. Q—Are there any poems about a woman named Laura? A—Petrarch, the Italian poet, wrote a number of sonnets about a woman named Laura with whom he was in love. However, it was platonic love as Laura was another man's wife.

PLEASE NOTE: Dispatch from Hollywood says in a game of dice a well-known comedian threw 13 passes in a row. Wonder what the record for consecutive passes is? Have never seen it mentioned. Also, if a man started with a dollar bet and doubled every time he made a pass, how much do you think he would be tossing the cubes for after 13 passes. Make a guess and then figure it out.

RABBITS: How do you like rabbit stew? You can have my share of it or rabbit meat prepared in any way. During the war much rabbit meat has been eaten in Germany. Not, however, because it was particularly popular but because the Nazis compelled practically all German families to raise rabbits as part of a plan to insure an abundant food supply in wartime.

FAIR ENOUGH

SENATOR VANDENBERG of Michigan has tried to prevent by law Jimmy Petrillo's exclusion from the radio of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., which is a non-profit summer school of music.

The head of the camp is Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, professor of music at the University of Michigan and a member of the American Federation of Musicians, a labor union, of which Petrillo is president.

Sen. Vandenberg

Among the camp faculty are 25 other union musicians who usually earn their living as professionals but cannot continue to do so unless they remain members in good standing.

Senator Vandenberg's proposed law would forbid Petrillo to interfere with any non-commercial, educational and cultural program.

Petrillo beat him to it by placing the camp on his unfair list. This means that Maddy and the other union teachers must quit the camp or abandon their right to earn a living as performing musicians.

DOCTOR MADDY says the camp was blacklisted because [illegible] Petrillo and insists that in so doing he was within his constitutional rights. He is being naive.

Of course that was his right under the Constitution of the United States. But he should know that when the Constitution of the country conflicts with the constitution of any union, the latter document prevails, according to the current practice.

If Dr. Maddy really thinks Petrillo can't punish him for exercising his right to freedom of speech this educator does need education.

I believe, however, that what he needs is not education but a big dose of that same castor oil which the professorial breed have been pouring down the gullet of the American people for 10 years and more.

Petrillo can fire him out of the Musicians' Union for nothing, and needn't even give him a hearing. If Maddy, as a professional educator, on the faculty of one of our biggest state universities, and a rank and file member of this union, doesn't know that, then he either hasn't read or doesn't understand the plain language of his union's constitution.

IN THE FIRST case he would have no kick coming. In the second, he would disqualify himself as a teacher, for even a professor, tinkling a piano in the back room of a dump for throw-money and beers, could understand the meaning of Article I of the first section of this document.

This article says Petrillo has the right to annul any rule or law of the union, except those dealing with financial matters, and substitute his own will, and that "the power so to do is hereby made absolute."

Any professor who would knowingly submit himself to this condition has himself to blame for any violation of his constitutional rights perpetrated by his fuehrer.

In reality this power is also made "absolute" over the financial affairs of Maddy's union because, by deposing the other officers, Petrillo can seize the treasury, amounting, at last reports, to $4,000,000.

I know an orchestra leader, an excellent professional musician, citizen and taxpayer, who has been a member of this union for 30 years but has never read its constitution. However, he is not on the faculty of a university. Entertainment not education, is his business.

UNDER THIS constitution, notwithstanding Vandenberg's proposed law forbidding interference with musical education and with the literary integrity of nonmusical plays, Petrillo's uneducated will remains the cultural law of the country.

He once did presume to censor a nonmusical drama, you know. The play mentioned his enemy the union racket, John L. Lewis. Jimmy ordered this mention deleted. If not, he would call on his allies, the electricians and stage-hands to strike the show.

Petrillo's decrees will remain the law until Congress has the manhood and patriotism to forbid the coercion of workers by the likes of Petrillo and establishes the priority of the American constitution over the law of the highbinder.

Maddy should know some more things about this union to which he has subjected himself.

It provides Petrillo with a new automobile whenever he wants one, or whenever, in these days, he can get a priority.

It provides the hire of a chauffeur and indemnity at the members' expense.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21 — Bette Davis, a lady who knows what she wants, has named Ellin Berlin's novel "This Land of Mine" to follow "Stolen Life." I suppose Bette was largely influenced by the fact Irving Rapper, a protege of hers, who directed her in "The Corn Is Green," will handle the megaphone job. Remember, Bette really discovered Rapper and asked Jack Warner to make him a director.

There are two swell women's roles in "This Land of Mine" — one an American woman and the other a foreign-born girl. But then Bette has never minded sharing honors, which is one good reason she is where she is today. Another is she is a girl who loves hard work, so she won't mind that "This Land of Mine" starts immediately after "Stolen Life."

MERLE OBERON stays right on the Universal lot. She remains after "Night in Paradise" to make "As It Was Before," the new title on that Luigi Pirandello story that has cropped up on my typewriter so often as "Before—Better Than Before." The title change is an improvement if you ask me. Merle's leading man will be Charles Korvin, the tall, dark and good-looking hero whom tolers at "U" have been told to build up. Picture starts rolling in April or May with Merle in modern wardrobe, and drama, for a change.

DON'T THINK Warners won't capitalize on "Baby" Bacall and Humphrey Bogart. Where could they buy publicity such as these two have had? Maybe they haven't always liked all the press notices, but there are people who like to see people who care for each other off the screen and in love scenes on the screen. Well, anyway, I've just heard through the underground that Bogie and "Baby" will be co-starred in "Cheyenne," a Western, with Lou Edelman producing.

YOU'LL NEVER guess who Cecil B. DeMille has been talking to about playing a straight dramatic part in his next picture. Betty Hutton—and if you think she isn't excited! She says all her life she's wanted to be in a DeMille picture, and to think she's been considered a good enough actress is the best thing that ever happened to her. Of course, Betty is modest, for in her line—putting over a fast song and getting into comedy action—there is none better. But she's like the comedian who always wanted to play Hamlet—she's just bound to go serious.

These awards are coming fast and furious. Tonight Look magazine had its annual award at Carthy Circle, with Bob Hope officiating. Top star honors went to Bing Crosby for "Going My Way," and Rita Hayworth for "Cover Girl." Gold plaques were awarded Darryl Zanuck for "Wilson," Leo McCarey for directing "Going My Way," Leon Shamroy for photographing "Wilson," Margaret O'Brien as the outstanding child actor, Shirley Temple for growing up so gracefully on the screen, and Walt Disney for his war training films. John and Gardner Cowles, owners of Look, were in town for the event.

WHEN YOU READ "lobster in season on the menu of your favorite restaurant or hotel dining room you will be aware of an interesting bit of background . . . OPA ceilings have been established for lobster in all restaurants . . . But with the wholesale price of lobsters soaring—they have risen at least 50 per cent this winter the restaurants found it impossible to serve the crustacean delicacy at the established ceiling prices . . . This "lobster in season" on the menu is the mild subterfuge which has been worked out, and with the approval of the OPA-sters we are told.

The rise in lobster prices this year has been due in part to the industry's determination to recoup part of its large losses in traps and pounds caused by the severity of the winter . . . But with $3.50 to $4.50 a pound for lobster meat at retail it should be possible to atone for the losses . . . Meantime, the shortage of Cape scallops is continuing . . . It's now half a dozen places in Boston have them for sale . . . In some restaurants, Cape scallops are on the menu . . . WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 — Brig. Gen. William O'Dwyer, who used to be district attorney of an arboreal, or tree-growing, community named Brooklyn, has a curious legal interest in the Big Three's recognition of Russia's claim to half of Pyland.

Gen. O'Dwyer

"My feelings in the matter are entirely personal," he told me. "There is a very weird story behind it."

General O'Dwyer, who would have been mayor of New York but for the trifling circumstance that the voters cast more votes for Fiorello LaGuardia, said he would be glad to recount the episode.

"It will not take more than 15 or 17 lab-oot hours, if these are no-rer-ee options," he said. "I feel it is particularly appropriate right now."

The general, who recently was appointed executive director of the War Refugee Board, began his public career as a copper pounding a beat. He studied law at night and, by gradual stages, became a lawyer, a magistrate, and a assistant attorney.

This is higher than coppers usually get, although Theodore Roosevelt—who used to be New York's head flatfoot—also made good in a small way.

ANYWAY, about 20 years ago when he was practicing law, Bill O'Dwyer had a client who was a chronic taxicab-swiper. This client never varied his offense. He would get potted, steal a cab, and drive home to Brooklyn, leaving the evidence parked outside his dwelling.

A succession of juries had taken a narrow view of this eccentricity. The fellow had been convicted three times. A fourth conviction meant he'd go up for life under the Baumes Law.

Well, he done it again, as we say in Flatbush, and it looked like the rockpile permanently. The fellow had an aged mother, also a wife and three kids, and they cried all over Bill's office.

Feeling his client was not really a criminal, O'Dwyer took the case to the late Magistrate Max Levine. The latter agreed to accept a misdemeanor plea and send the cabnapper to Welfare Island for an indeterminate sentence, thus saving him from a fourth felony rap.

WELL—O'DWYER was congratulating himself when the U. S. Immigration authorities stepped in!

It seemed the taxi-filcher had been born in Poland and had neglected to become a United States citizen. So the Ellis Island guys said they were going to deport him as an undesirable.

This time O'Dwyer found himself stymied. He said everything, but the deportation order stood. Bill's office was almost knee-deep in tears of the fellow's relatives.

The deportation ship was to sail at noon. The cab-swiper's family gathered in O'Dwyer's office for what had all the appearances of a wake, except there was no visible corpse.

As the clock struck noon, the family—as if on signal—set up the darndest wailing ever heard. In the midst of this clamor the "deported" man walked in!

Well, the family thought it was seeing a ghost—and commenced howling all over again. I'd said it took about 20 minutes before he could tear the guy free of clinging relatives and ask how he got away.

It was easy, grinned the cab-rustler. "It seems the place I come from in Poland is being claimed by the Russkies. And this country ain't recognizing the Russians.

"So, since we don't speak to the Russians, it would be impolite to send them any gifts, such as me.

"In other words they ain't got any place they can deport me to!"

YOU MAY have read the other day that the Maritime Commission granted a special dispensation in favor of the great State of Kentucky. It permitted the new Victory ship, Bardstown, named for the Kentucky town, to be christened with Bourbon whiskey instead of champagne.

The Maritime Commission was playing smart because bentuckians have strong feelings about their Bourbon. They demonstrated this back in 1898 at the launching of the battleship Kentucky. The plan was to christen the ship with a bottle of spring water from Abraham Lincoln's birthplace but a goodly number of sons and daughters of old Kentucky showed up with small bottles of Bourbon—which they let fly as the ship moved down the ways.

I called Sen. Happy Chandler of Kentucky to ask how he stood on Bourbon versus champagne for the Bardstown launching.

"You may say I stand solidly and unflinchingly for Bourbon," he said. "It is the finest wine of my State, although I personally eschew it. Incidentally, to add to your store of knowledge, this particular whisky was named for Bourbon County, Kentucky, not a foreign potentate, as many seem to believe.

"This wonderful beverage, which I personally do not use, pre-dates 1792 when Kentucky became the 15th State to enter the Union."

Complexion Half Battle

Beauty

By Ruth Mugglebee

SATURDAY NIGHT MAY BE "the lonesomest night in the week" for some girls . . . what with the bulk of flowering manhood off to the wars . . . but, not for the girl who can take beauty competition and come up a winner in the survival for top popularity with the Big Moments still around . . . or in uniform enjoying brief interludes of recreation.

And, that is the girl with the lovely, clean, healthy-looking face. A clean complexion is half the battle in the fight for an attractive appearance.

A clean complexion is receptive to the flattery of makeup . . . and to the irresistible intrigue of color artistry. It is not . . . but definitely . . . the complexion that is pin-dotted with blackheads and enlarged pores . . . which looks like colored gravel when makeup is applied.

If you are going to use facial artifices . . . and what beauties don't from the celluloid cuties to the fashion modeling lovelies . . . you must be certain that your facial expanse is as smooth as a petal . . . hackneyed as that phrase is. Say it how you will . . . complexion smoothness minus the bumps and lumps of neglected skin care . . . is is important to Judy or Jill in her searching after facial loveliness as the smooth canvas is to the artist and his brush.

If you plan to go to town socially . . . or in your new spring wardrobe . . . and you will once you see the dazzling array of keen-looking clothes . . . so smooth and sleek . . . take a good, long look in that mirror and see if a little remedying or renovation isn't in order. And, if your complexion needs it . . . here's Mrs. Bluebird with the good word.

A faintly medicated cream . . . specific for blackheads . . . has within its cosmetic power the ability to melt those blackheads away. It loosens them out of their sockets and then aids in their dissolution . . . until suddenly your heart will sing for joy when you note the improved appearance of your complexion.

Apply to the affected areas . . . thick enough to cover the pores . . . and if you can see little holes through the cream, apply more cream.

For the name of this blackhead specific cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLACKHEADS nor enlarged pores definitely do NOT become this demure young bonnet so airy for spring because it has an open crown. It takes a smooth-looking face to wear this Helene Garnell designed mustard yellow felt . . . softly gathered by a band of chartreuse grosgrain and trimmed at the front with harmonizing green and yellow flowers. We saw it modeled in New York recently and the model who wore it was as lovely to look at as the bonnet.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Yesterday afternoon I had the pleasure of welcoming the new Canadian ambassador, L. B. Pearson, and Mrs. Pearson, at tea. At luncheon we had a chance to discuss some of Miss Katharine Lenroot's concerns, and today she is off to join the others attending the conference in Mexico City.

This should prove a most interesting and important conference for all of us who are anxious to see the nations in this hemisphere walk hand in hand toward greater development and understanding.

* * *

THERE IS SHORTLY going to be held in Washington, under auspices of the National Education Ass'n, a conference on veterans' education. So I have been seeking some information which would help me to attend this conference, when I am able to do so, with greater knowledge.

I find that the less education a boy now in service has had in the past, the less he plans to obtain in the future.

From surveys which have been made, the boys who have had some college education are the ones planning in the greatest numbers to go on.

The fact that stands out is that we must prepare, first of all, to give great numbers of these boys the incentive to take advantage of the GI Bill of Rights in order to upgrade themselves on leaving the service. Next we must prepare to educate them on the grammar and high school levels in far greater numbers than on the college level.

This is an important fact for any group to bear in mind in planning to offer educational facilities to returning veterans.

This teaching, which must be done in many cases, is far more closely allied to adult education than to the usual education offered to young people, since these young men will be mature in many ways.

They will have carried responsibility, some of them will have had authority over other men. Yet their tools for acquiring knowledge must be obtained at the level where they left off going to school, and frequently at a younger level since they have probably forgotten many things in the academic field.

They will have the power, however, to learn far more quickly and on a much maturer level.

* * *

SPECIAL TEACHERS will be needed for this work and should be preparing themselves.

Checked Suits Make Bow

By BETTINA BEDWELL

CHECKS are being put on a good many of the best fashions to come out for spring, and the checked coat and suit are particularly important. Next Shepherd checked woolens are used to make some of the best-looking models.

These checked coats and suits look Spring-like and gay, but they are at the same time mighty practical. Jo Copeland, one of our brilliant designers, likes to use neat, small checks as patterns for her best wool suits and coats, and the one sketched is from her.

This is a redingote type of coat, which the French who originated it called the "Incroyable," or incredible, to you. It is incredibly smart, in black and white checked wool, with black velvet making the collar, and the flaps for the slanting hip pockets. Black buttons fasten the coat down the front, double-breasted style.

Cherries, My, My!

By MARTHA LEE

THE CHERRY tree legend, told throughout the years about one of our great presidents, George Washington, will always be one of America's best loved and cherished stories illustrating truth and honor. Bright red cherries, tempting in flavor, will always be an all-American favorite fruit. Thus it seems most appropriate that this February should bring forth tasty foods featuring luscious cherries which the Washington story made so popular.

Cherry tea squares are a special breakfast coffee cake. Here a light and tender coffee cake is made extra tempting with juicy cherries. This luscious fruit makes generous filling for each piece of coffee cake.

CHERRY TEA SQUARES

2 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt — ⅓ cup milk
½ cup sugar — 1 egg, beaten
2 tbsp. melted shortening
1 cup canned cherries
Confectioners' sugar icing, if desired

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add milk to egg. Mix well. Add melted shortening and add all to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten the flour. Spread in paper-lined pan, 7x11 inches. With knife handle or fingers, press hollows in the dough 1½ inches apart. Fill hollows with cherries. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 25 minutes. When cool, drizzle with confectioners' sugar icing, if desired. Makes 1 coffee cake, 7x11 inches.

A luncheon dessert which is sure to give a lift to chilled spirits is Cherry Roll. Its bright red cherry glaze seems to give a world of warmth as well as good flavor. The tantalizing flavor of the cherries with their luscious juice is a gay companion to the flaky biscuit dough. Its rich, fruity goodness makes each bite of cherry roll a dessert delight.

CHERRY ROLL

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt — 2 tbsp. sugar
½ cup shortening
½ to ⅔ cup milk
2½ cups fresh or canned sweetened cherries, drained
2 cups cherry juice and water
½ cup sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make soft dough. Toss out on lightly floured board and knead gently ½ minute. Roll into rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick. Spread cherries over dough and roll jelly-roll fashion. Cut 1½ inch slices and place cut side down close together in greased deep baking dish 8x12 inches. Heat cherry juice and water and dissolve ½ cup sugar in it. Pour over rolls. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Makes 1 dozen rolls.

Cherry Glaze Dessert has a party look. It has a party flavor, too. It is really a delightful dinner dessert dressed elegantly for the most special of occasions.

CHERRY GLAZE DESSERT

In pan 8x8x2 inches or 9 inches in diameter, melt 4 tablespoons margarine or butter. Mix ¾ cup sugar with 2 cups pitted red cherries and arrange evenly over bottom of pan. Spread the following batter over cherries:

Batter:
1½ cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt — ½ cup sugar
1 egg — 2-3 cup milk
3 tbsp. melted shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Beat egg, add milk and shortening. Add to flour mixture, stirring just enough to moisten flour. Pour over cherries. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve warm or cool, with or without cream. Makes 1 cake 8x8x2 inches.

Society's Latest Fad

By BETTY ALDEN

NOW THAT SOJOURNS to the sunny South are just a happy memory, society's latest fad is to close the house and move the family to a local hotel for a six or eight-weeks mid-winter vacation. This is not only a practical idea to save coal and oil but provides Dad with a holiday from shoveling snow and stoking the furnace and Mom and Sis a change from cooking and dish-washing in these days of maidless households. And they can still enjoy a vacation without interrupting their Red Cross and hospital work.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burrage and daughter Elizabeth of Chestnut Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eaton, also of Chestnut Hill, and the Colby Hewitts who have a year round house at Duxbury, are among those having a brief fling at life in local hotels as a popular solution for a winter holiday.

As for families doubling up in wartime many more daughters have "come home to mother" for the duration. Mrs William Simmons (Jean Roberts) of Baltimore who celebrated her first wedding anniversary this month, is with her parents in Winchester. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward B. Simmons (Peggy Hardwick) of Brookline, has taken a house in California in case her husband gets an unexpected leave from his Navy duties in the Pacific.

Five new directors were welcomed by several hundred members of the Florence Crittenton League attending the annual luncheon in the Statler yesterday. Theye were Mrs. Harry Middendorf, just back from a skiing jaunt to Canada; Mrs. Reginald Hayes, Mrs. Malcolm Jenney, Mrs. Malcolm Colburn and Mrs. Ferdinand Gianfranchi.

Guests included Mrs. Robert Steinert, who has been chosen chairman of the league's annual charity bazaar, succeeding her mother, Mrs. Guy Currier.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Wednesday, Feb. 21, 1945

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—A keen person; quietly, effectively progressive. Usually hopeful (though sometimes lack sufficient confidence, urge); capable of much achievement. DON'T retire when strongly opposed—you have the talent to succeed, get behind YOU! Show more initiative, staying power. You can go far in your chosen field, gain splendid co-operation from friends, superiors. Develop your talents; have faith, pray. Birthdate of John H. Cardinal Newman, highly esteemed Catholic clergyman, writer; Ann Sheridan, actress.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals suggests that dog owners be licensed instead of dogs. Licenses would be issued only to persons able to provide good homes for their pets.

SOUP OF THE WEEK
by Grandma Smith
Just watch your family dip their spoons into this delicious, full bodied broth.

Scotch Broth

½ cup Smith's quick-cooking Pearl barley	½ cup celery
2 pounds lamb or mutton	½ cup onion
4 tbls. butter	Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup carrots	2 tablespoons flour
½ cup turnips	½ tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Cut lean meat in 1 inch cubes, put in kettle, cover with 3 pints cold water, bring quickly to boiling point, skim, add barley. Simmer 2½ hours or until meat is tender but brown in several inches water with cold water and bring to boiling point, skim, and boil 2 minutes. Strain water from bones and add to meat. Fry vegetables in 2 tablespoons butter 5 minutes and add to soup with salt and pepper to taste, and cook until vegetables are tender. Thicken with flour cooked together. Add parsley just before serving.

'Dark of the Moon' Hailed As Welcome Americana

By PEGGY DOYLE

American culture is not only enriched but Shubert first nighters found themselves entertained by last night's local premiere of "Dark of the Moon."

This is the play which won for its young authors, Howard Richardson and William Berney, the annual Maxwell Anderson prize for the best American drama in verse and, more recently, glowing notices as a result of its Philadelphia and Washington previews.

Originally presented last summer at the Cambridge Summer Theater under John Huntington's sponsorship, it got the nod from The Theater Guild. Now with Carol Stone and Richard Hart in the roles they created and many of the supporting players of the original cast, the Guild in association with the American Theater Society is presenting the Messrs. Shubert's production as the fourth play in their subscription series.

"Dark Of the Moon" is vivid and welcome Americana, as minus the claptrap that too frequently is part and parcel of native lyric drama as Berlin is minus heart and hope today. There is vigor and freshness in the telling of this folk fantasy of a simple witch-boy's ill-starred love for a mountain girl.

North Carolina's Great Smokies provide the locale for this legend of passion and prejudice. George Jenkins' strikingly unconventional sets contribute vitally to the atmosphere of doom and dark forebodings.

Hart, a Brown University graduate headed for journalism, who made Broadway last year after a scant four-year apprenticeship in the theater, is excellent. His witch-boy has a rhythm and a wild desperation that are immensely effective in projecting the weird mountain lore of how he became human for the love of beautiful, copper-haired Barbara Allen.

As the Barbara Allen of this dramatization of the old ballad of the same name, Carol, who would be Fred Stone's youngest daughter, reveals an unexpected range and capacity. There is a quicksilver attraction in her questing mountain girl that beautifully complements Hart's witch-boy.

Principals are generously supported by players who have been as thoughtfully chosen as they have been expertly directed by Cambridge Summer Theater's actor-director, Robert E. Perry.

These would include Georgia Simmons, as the conjur woman; Iris Whitney and Marjorie Belle, as the dark and the fair witch temptresses; Ross Matthew, as the ancient conjur man; Kathryn Cameron and Millicent Coleman, as the blunt, dauntless mountain-woman and her viper-tongued daughter; John Gifford, as the strongman-mountaineer; Roy Fant, as the comically cantankerous Uncle Smelique, and others whom space limitations forbid individual salutes.

The dovetailing of music, choreography and story is another hat-doffing achievement. Walter Hendl's score and the choreography by Esther Junger not only built up the play's eerie quality but translate and advance the story.

Mechanical difficulties last night somewhat slowed up the proceedings, but did not detract seriously from the production's worth as entertainment of high poetic and excitement-provoking caliber.

Dorothy Kilgallen writes "Broadway" every day for the Boston American.

THE HUMBLE FORTUNES of a priest from his troubled boyhood in Scotland through his long years in the China mission field are inspiringly conveyed by Gregory Peck, as Father Chisholm, in "The Keys of the Kingdom." After a successful two-week run on the Met screen, the A. J. Cronin story moves to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow.

'The Deep Mrs. Sukes' Here Tuesday

Tickets go on sale tomorrow at the Wilbur box office for the two-week engagement of "The Deep Mrs. Sykes," the new George Kelly play which Stanley Gilkey and Barbara Payne are presenting here, beginning Tuesday evening. . . . This is Kelly's first play since "Reflected Glory," in which Tallulah Bankhead starred on Broadway in 1936 . . . The playwright's "Craig's Wife" won the Pulitzer Prize.

Is Europe Breeding Another World War?

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE INVALIDES IN PARIS is a museum of war weapons from the ages. There are gleaming pikes, halberds and battle axes for stabbing the body and splitting the skull. And blunderbusses and cannon for killing at distances. And double-edged swords and needle bayonets for hacking human flesh. They are relics of forgotten soldiery from wars whose causes are no longer remembered.

Austen Lake

The graves of these century-old warriors have long since been flattened by rain and wind. The legends on their headstones are erased by erosion. And nobody, except a few antiquarians, cares who they were or what they died for. They are the vast anonymity of world soldiery who fought, bled and died for reasons they seldom understood. But the famous leaders who made their wars are enshrined in marble tombs.

I stood lately in a young apple orchard in Lorraine, France. The seedling trees were leafless, virginal and slender. Between their orderly rows lay ranks of wooden crosses surmounted by rusting, French helmets and legends scarcely discernable—soldiers of 1940 who were also returning to earth's anonymity, their bones feeding the roots of the little saplings with nitrates to make the fruit more sweet.

There is an American military graveyard at Suresnes, France, where acres of white crucifixes stand in trim files, men who died for a principle that failed—"The war to end all wars." And sometimes the whispering wind, rustling through the trees seemed to murmur restlessly with muted questions. What of your dreams, Comrades? And the answer, "No dreams now!" Well, what of national pride, Comrade? And the answer, "There are no nations now!"

De Gaulle Follows War's Pattern

TODAY, IF YOU WERE IN FRANCE, you would hear professional soldiers talk of the NEXT world war. They talk as though it is inevitable. They are not sure who will fight it, or for what cause. But they are certain that Human Folly, that immutable cause of war, will survive to bear more evil fruit. The private ambitions, personal prejudices and official animosities of political chiefs who will again place individual vanity above the common interest.

History shows that War is never initiated by the Man with the Hoe or the Man at his Forge or Desk. Wars are spawned by political pomposities of some national leader who becomes sensitive to personal grudge and begins blurting inflammatory words which beget answering inflammatory words until both sides run out of words big enough to satisfy their vanity. Then the national leaders call the men from his hoe, forge or desk to mutilate each other for the sake of "national pride."

Such is the primary pattern of war, and the design which already may be shaping another. For I see in Gen. Charles De Gaulle, inventing his armed legions in exile, a replica of President Roosevelt's invention of a two party conference. He's sore because he wasn't asked to make a touch at Casablanca bridgework. Personal pride, which the mistakes for National Pride, prompts his decision to reply to recent slur with one of his own. No matter that he owes his present position to Anglo blood, bones and money. Dignity is wrinkled until he talks.

The French people are not allowed to express decision or speculate on his regime. Any items of public importance are being carefully censored. For De Gaulle's dream of monopolistic control of the post-war French has had large overtones. Also his demand for equal voice in partitioning Germany, his refusal to accept Allied decisions, his separate treaty with Russia, his criticism of Allies' tactical blunders, and kindred bitter et ceteras.

Americans are, and always expect to be, traditional friends of France. There is no reason how, in the people's. Yet Europe's wars, present and future, have become OUR vital concern and so have the germs which threaten to become such wars. We don't intend to buck, nor become tax-ridden to feed again because European chiefs of state show a blunt unwillingness to make honest concessions, or avoid mutually jealousies, or refuse the hand of mutual tolerance. Throughout history Europe's privately made alliances have begotten counter alliances at cross purpose to the fostering of mutual mistrust and antagonistic cliques. That way lies perdition, and America's stake in the future is too heavy to stand tolerantly and watch the ancient formula repeat itself.

Dulce et decorum est . . .

THE AVERAGE RESPONSIBLE FRENCH citizen needs no reminder that eight months and two weeks ago his country was captive under the steel-studded yoke of Germany and faced by eternal vassalage to Berlin. France's salvation was then without hope. Eight months and two weeks ago Anglo-American armies swept onto Normandy beaches and today have cleared all but a small fringe of French soil at the price of many thousands of soldier lives and uncounted billions in money.

There are two kinds of national pride! The most malignant form is that which springs from arrogance in high position and sets press agencies in motion till it becomes hysterical hate. Europe's war history has been for ever of statesmen with inflated egos to make the wars and for its idealistic youth to fight them. And always the statesmen survive to preach the time-stained pap of centuries over the graves of youth. "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori." Far sweeter and better to live above green growing grass!

The best in national pride is founded on the quiet comfort of lamplit homes, the peering eyes of waiting children, and the creation of something useful at a living wage. The man with the hoe likes the smell of his brown earth. The man at the forge loves the sound of his hammer. Peace, by neighborly concessions and mutual tolerance, is the essence of national pride. Eh Monsieur de Gaulle?

All-Star Coach Worried

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Youthful Frank Bennett, coach of Belmont High School and now handling the reins of the Greater Boston League All-Star first team, was more than a bit worried as he watched his hockey players march off the ice after their first—and probably only—workout for the holiday clash tomorrow afternoon against Montreal Catholic at the Arena.

He wasn't at all satisfied with the scrimmage his outfit had with Coach John Hall's second stringers and the loss of three players hasn't improved his frame of mind.

And more as a measure of precaution than the lack of manpower, Coach Bennett has plucked two players from Hall's second crew to sit on his bench. The loss of Augie Messuri, defenseman from Rindge Tech, Ray Pickard, goalie from the same school and Forward Johnnie Recco of Newton has resulted in promotions for Dave Crafts, Newton defenseman, and Goalie Don Fougere of Medford.

But even with these reinforcements, Coach Bennett was still mumbling "how are we going to beat this Canadian team" as he shed his skates in the Arena dressing room.

It's his problem but it's probably not as bad a picture as he paints it. He has three stellar lines to toss at the Howie Morenz Canadian invaders, a sharp hard-hitting defense and probably the coolest goalie in the circuit in Stoneham's Don Whiston. Although Whiston has never played against that against a squad of nine making the trip down from Canada.

Coach Bennett planned to start Jack Kelley, Belmont, Dick Briand, Rindge Tech, and Warren Priestly, Melrose, as his first line against the Canadians who have never failed to open up with their second line. As for the other units, the GBI All-Stars will keep intact the Medford trio of Jerry Brennan, Paul Whalen and Gene McNair with leading scorer Tony Frasca, Cambridge Latin, Bill Coveney, Arlington, and Bill Murphy, Stoneham, as his third attacking force.

Tom Templeton, Medford, and Fred Flynn, Stoneham, will start on defense with Wendy Forbes, Melrose and Crafts as spares in front of Whiston.

Bob DiBlasio of Newton, out with an injured shoulder, will play for a few minutes against the Catholic League All-Stars in the other half of the Arena twin bill . . . Coach Hall will start Ray Clark, Stoneham, Wally Cogan, Stoneham, and Don Sennott, Arlington, as his first line . . . the Catholic League lineup, of Coach Tim Murphy will be dominated by Malden Catholic and St. Sebastian players.

Coach Murphy's starting team will have Jack Herbert and Ken Gorham, Malden Catholic, on wings for Center Hank Barry, St. Sebastian's . . . Goalie Bill Burke and Tom Mayne, Malden Catholic, and Dan O'Brien, St. Sebastian's, will complete the defense.

Tomorrow night, at the Arena, the Bay State and Eastern Mass All-Stars will battle it out for the right to meet the GBI crew Saturday afternoon . . . the second fours of both leagues will battle with the same objective.

Age Improves Follies' Brock

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Now if they were awarding a Hallahan trophy for the "outstanding performer" in the Ice Follies, how would you vote? As the star-spangled cast performed before 11,000 enthusiastic spectators on opening night, at the Garden, would No. 1 be Heinie Brock, Frick and Frack, Bobby Blake, Hazel Franklin or the stylish Roy Shipstad? Or would Evelyn Chandler or Betty Chalow top your list?

For sundry reasons Heinie Brock is our No. 1. First, the rubber-legged little rascal gets more fun out of his act than any professional performer seen here in aeons. Second, he seems to grow better with age and he certainly is no chicken. Third, you simply have to root for the guy when you learn he went home from here to become an athlete not the least of which was incurable paralysis.

Heinie wasn't one of those infant skating prodigies. In fact he didn't learn to skate until he was 17. He was born in Alameda, Cal., lived there until he was 13. Then his folks moved to a small town 30 miles outside of Minneapolis. That didn't bring Heinie much luck because he was stricken with polio. After beating that, he had both feet frozen. At 16 his future looked bleak.

"I used to dream of becoming a great athlete," mused Heinie today. "I'd vision myself a diver or a ball player, and by golly when I got my feet, I made the grade. Dreams come true."

Heinie was such a talented shortstop as a freshman at Minneapolis that Coach Russell Ford, old emery ball pitcher with the Yanks, wanted him to become a pitcher.

"I love the game," Heinie admitted, "and often wish I had followed it up."

He did follow up his swimming and diving, and in 1924 placed fourth in the nationals, would have gone to the Olympics had he not suffered a serious back injury.

He was a jack-of-all trades. Heinie, but unlike a lot of boys he mastered most of them. He played the sax, led his own band in '27 toured the world with it.

"I never worked hard at anything but baseball," Heinie said. "I worked hard at that because I love it. Everything seemed to come easy to me. I took the first time I tried the [illegible] somersault. I did it as well as I ever did in my life. Seemed to have everything perfect to perfection in my career. Sounds crazy, doesn't it? It's true, though."

Heinie has packed his 1941 [illegible] has returned to [illegible] act. The audience [illegible] the way through it. [illegible] applauded the Fitzpatricks, the Maxsons, the Blacks et al, yet as they were voting for the Hallahan award it looks Mr Brock's name would lead the list. He wears well.

Frick, Harridge Confer With ODT Head on 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (INS)—Pres. Ford Frick of the National League said today that baseball is going ahead with its 1945 plans with one eye on pending manpower legislation and the other on the critical transportation situation.

Frick and President Will Harridge of the American League conferred yesterday with War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes on the controversial so-called "work-or-fight" draft bill and proposed State Department Advisory Committee setup.

He said however, that baseball teams are doing nothing to give players pretexts to draft-dodge, asserting that they "intend to continue those plans," he added.

Confronted with the current prospect of opening the season with under and over-age players, and 4-F's, Frick said he personally favored a mandatory labor measure which would set a definite policy.

Robinson vs. La Motta As Army Calls Again

By JACK CONWAY

RAY (SUGAR) ROBINSON, who will battle Jake LaMotta in a ten-round bout in the New York Garden on Friday night, is headed back to the Army as he has been called for a pre-induction physical examination next Tuesday. As Robinson is being passed as 100 per cent perfect by the doctors representing the Boxing Commissions in Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Cleveland and Pennsylvania, it is unlikely that the Army doctors will reject "Sugar."

Robinson received an honorable discharge from the Army last summer after having toured army camps in this country with Joe Louis. When Louis went overseas, "Sugar" did not accompany him.

Jake La Motta

Since coming out of the Army, Robinson has beaten all opposition that has been sent against him. He has proved he has the right to set himself up as the "uncrowned welterweight champion of the world."

Robinson has given 20 per cent of his purses for most of his bouts for Disabled Veterans Funds, while most of the shows at which he has boxed have been staged for a war charity.

War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes cracked down on professional athletes who are not in the armed forces. He said he could not understand how a professional athlete could manage to engage in rugged body contact sports and still be found unfit for military service.

Pep First to Go

WILLIE PEP, who successfully defended his New York share of the world's featherweight crown on Monday night, was the first professional athlete to feel the effects of Byrnes' statement. Pep had received a medical discharge from the Navy, but when called up for a pre-induction examination by his draft board he was placed in 1-A and is awaiting a call for active Army service.

The physical requirements for the Army and Navy have been lowered, and a person is no longer rejected for minor physical defects. Pep, the best featherweight in the world, and Robinson, class of the welterweights, were natural targets for persons enforcing Byrnes' order.

Robinson is anxious to box one more bout after his meeting with LaMotta and it may be staged by Rip Valenti's Goodwin A. C.

Check Defense Plants

DRAFT BOARDS have also started checking on boxers, ball players, hockey players and other athletes who are employed in defense plants. Now that there is an urgent need for manpower in the armed forces it does not feel that athletes, with little mechanical experience, should be granted deferments.

This drive may result in the drafting of several boxers who have been appearing in Boston rings.

The Manpower Commission and draft boards are also going to find out just what these athletes are doing in defense plants. Time slips will be carefully checked as well as the nature of the work that the athlete does. Few athletes will be able to prove they are key men. Most of them have been carried along for so-called morale purposes. Others have been the pets of bosses.

It is also charged that some of these defense workers have been taking out-of-state trips for athletic appearances, and that they have been accompanied by persons in their plants. It is claimed this has increased absenteeism and hampered the war effort.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming appears to have won his fight to give entire jurisdiction to the Manpower Commission on such matters.

Sen. O'Mahoney, a former Boston newspaperman who later took up law and politics, is a forceful and able citizen and he will insist that the star athletes share the war burdens with other millions of American youths.

DOG SHOW

Ollgau of Brielynn. They lay in the cellar of Mechanics Hall as they had laid last week in Hartford when teh dog show was canceled there for the same reasons.

Most miserable of dogs was Kenbrook Kind Commander, owned by Kenneth Brooks of North Bewick, Me.

This was the little bulldog's first show and he was never even allowed in the building.

"And to think he was by Morningside Monterey and Kenbrook Lady," sighed his proud owner, who continued to tell about his down East dog with the beautiful undershot jaw that might have won him fame and fortune.

Frieda, a great Dane, jumped up on the subway entrance and sulked with her big head in her paws while Owner Briggs Doherty philosophized:

"Eighteen champions in this gal's pedigree. Deep brisket, good hind quarters, what substance! Well, vanity of vanities, Frieda, let's grab a cab and go back to the hotel for lunch."

Announcement of cancellation came at 2:30 this morning after a long evening session by the executive committee of the show.

Its statement read in part:

"The executive committee of the Eastern Dog Club in a session at 1 a. m. this morning voted to cancel the 1945 show in view of statements released to the national press services yesterday at 5 p. m. by the ODT.

"The statements appeared to be contradictory to the understanding given to the club by Richard H. Clare, secretary of the War Committee on Conventions, on Monday, when the show, we believed, was apparently being run on a basis satisfactory to Mr. Clare's committee."

Kennedy After 1000-Yard Title

There'll be some stirring competition in the New England 3-AU track and field championships at the "Y" tomorrow (7:15) but no event will be more fiercely contested than the 1000.

Entered are George Kennedy of Tufts, John Serrie of Tech, Mark Burnham of Dartmouth and Walter Mack, ex-Michigan State, among others, with the winner bidding for a trip to the nationals in New York Saturday.

Kennedy was a member of the 1944 IC4-A mile relay champions and defeated Dartmouth's fleet Bob Grady in a dual meet 600 earlier in the winter. Serrie ran anchor on Oscar Hedlund's 3:29 relay at BAA and third on the Tech team that won from RI State at NYAC. Earlier, he defeated Tufts' Duncan Blanchard in a dual meet 1000. Burnham is a former Harvard boy, a member of the Green's speedy relay this winter. Mack held the Michigan State freshman record for the 1000 (2:14.8) before entering the Navy.

List of championship events on the holiday slate: 40-yard dash, high and low hurdles; 600, 1000, mile and three-mile runs; mile relay, high jump and shot put. The 25-pound weight throw will be held at Tech at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

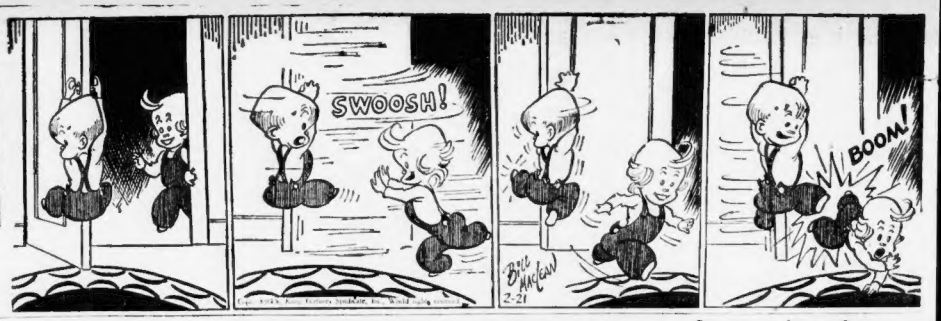
DOUBLE TROUBLE



Hockey Awards Hit by Grimes

By BILL GRIMES

A few days ago we discussed the poten tialities for the N. H. L. All-Star team and wound up with five Canadiens and a large qu estion mark as to whether the right defense berth should be allotted to Jack Crawford. "Dit" Clapper, Earl Seibert or Otto Heller.

Now, to wile away the time while the Bruins are absent from these parts, let us take up the special trophy awards, which, with the exception of the Vezina Cup, are vague and in the case of the Hart Trophy meaningless.

To perpetuate the memory of Georges Vezina, who was the net guardian for Canadiens for 15 years, Joe Catteranich, Leo Dandurand and Louie Latourneau, owners of the French club, donoted the Vezina Cup. They specified clearly that the award should go to the goaltender having the lowest "goals against" record during the regular season. There isn't any loophole in the Vezina Cup award whereby the politicians can enter into a combine and do dealing from the bottom of the deck.

The Hart Trophy, which was presented to the N.H.L. by Dr. David A. Hart, father of the late Cecil Hart, who piloted the Canucks to successive Stanley Cup championships in 1930 and '31 is ill-defined. Because of the specifications which state the award should go to the player who is "most valuable" to HIS team during the season, there should be six Hart Trophies.

And, moreover, the experts, who made the selections have a batting average of .048. In other words, they've made only one collect choice out of 21 tries. And, that was in 1928-29 when they picked Roy Worters, the New York American midget goal tender.

The goal tender is the most valuable player on any hockey team. So, when the time comes for the Hart award, it boils down to the goalie playing in the city with the largest number of votes. And that was what happened in 1929, when the New York writers "bulleted" for Roy Worters.

Now, we come to the Lady Byng award, which is presented annually to the "most gentlemanly" player. Since its inception in 1924-25, the Lady Byng has been a "Tea Party" for forwards. One winner was the most gentlemanly not through choice but because of a well developed bump of caution and another, "Black" Marty Barry, was from the other side of the tracks and must have won the award for his action off, rather than, on the ice.

In the two decades it has in competition, the Lady Byng trophy has never been awarded to a defense man. They haven't any more of a chance to win the Lady Byng than they have to get the nod for the Vozina Cup. Their duties are not supposed to be "gentlemanly." They are the boys assigned to mowing down opponents.

In our opinion, the goalies should not be eligible for the Calder Trophy, the outstanding rookie award. They have too much of an edge on their competitors.

The Tronto scribes are trying to promote Frank McCool into the Calder award. They argue that Bill Durnan in the nets for Canadiens hasn't a chance to be voted the Vezina Cup. Well, what of it? That's just "Finn's" tough luck. The Queen City scribes do not make any mention of the fact that with McCool in the ntts, the Maple Leafs have only broken even in 40 games, 19 wins, 19 defeats and 2 ties.

But, why should we get all steamed up over the N. H. L. special awards anyway. Because it is strictly on the up and up, a goal minder might talk his manager into a bonus for winning the Vezina Cup but I've never heard of any honorarium following in the wake of a Calder, Hart or Lady Byng award.

Hoop Fix Probe Clears Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (INS)—The Madison Square Garden management was cleared of any hint of irregularities in the promotion of college basketball games in a report, public today, of City Investigations Comr. Edgar Bromberger's probe into athletics among city-owned colleges.

He said he found "every possible precaution" taken to prevent gambling at Garden events, although commercialized betting is "general throughout various sections of the country" as evidenced by Philadelphia and Minneapolis baseketball form sheets.

Bromberger revealed two hitherto undisclosed instances of college players being approached by gamblers. He said Bill Levine of City Collegze turned down an offer of "easy money" at the Jan. 10 game with Syracuse and said another City College player rejected a similar offer during the 1941-42 season.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Cold Aid

Helps Break Up Colds' Local Congestion—Checks Coughing

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

Honor Roll of Casualties

"...In the exhausted hour of peace whom shall we honor among these? The martyrs bleeding by the wall, the humble, who cry out and fall, and these are all, and these are all."—(Clark Mills.)

The War Dept. today announced names of 2112 soldiers wounded in action, including 113 with next of kin in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine.

The Navy Dept. announced 157 casualties, dead, wounded or missing, of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel, including 11 with next of kin in Massachusetts.

In case of divergence between these lists and information sent to next of kin, the last War or Navy Dept. telegram or letter to next of kin is the final authority on the status of a serviceman.
